

This Website is designed for use by individuals that want to conduct fundraisers to benefit the American Cancer Society (ACS). By using this Website, you acknowledge and agree to the following:

(1) You have read, understand and agree to comply with the Terms of Use of this Website, including activities and postings which are prohibited by the Website.

(2) You are over 16 years of age.

(3) You hereby release ACS of any and all liability and agree that you are responsible for any claims, causes of action, and damages that may arise in connection with the Event. You further agree to indemnify and hold ACS harmless for any and all direct and/or third-party claims, demands, losses, costs, obligations, and liabilities that you may incur or suffer in direct or indirect relation to your acts or omissions at or arising out of the operations of the Event.

(4) You are conducting the Event for no compensation. You will be responsible for any out-of-pocket expenses, including any taxes, that may be incurred in connection with the Event.

(5) You agree that you will not include information on this Website and in promotional materials about the Event that is inconsistent with ACS's mission and values. Such content includes, but is not limited to, advertising a for-profit business, an endorsement or perceived endorsement of any goods or services, support or opposition of a political party or a political candidate, materials affiliated with tobacco/marijuana or tobacco/marijuana-related products and any other products inconsistent with ACS's mission, content of any nature which may result in fraud or misrepresentation to the public, pornographic or otherwise offensive sexual materials, racially or ethnically prejudicial materials, overtly religious materials or any other information that may be offensive to the general public. You may note that your event is to benefit ACS but you may not state or imply that your event or any product or service is endorsed by ACS. ACS reserves the right to request removal of your Event from this Website that ACS deems in violation of these policies and standards.